Receipt of the papers filed on December 5, 2003, is acknowledged. Claims 1-20 have been canceled. Claims 21-50 were previously canceled. New claims 51-69 have been presented.

Applicant's newly presented claims are worded differently from the claims in the previously applied patents, and are deemed overcome the rejection under 35 U.S.C. 101.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

1. Claims 51-69 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1-9 of U. S. Patent No. 6,217,727 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: Both the claims of the patent and the claims of the instant application are directed to apparatus for electroplating a semiconductor product. Instant claim 51 recites a reservoir configured to contain an electroplating solution and a support associated with the reservoir such that when the reservoir is filled with solution and a substrate is held on the support, the substrate is in contact with solution contained in the reservoir. Claim 1 of the '727 patent recites a support device for support the semiconductor product in an electroplating solution. The support device is considered to correspond to the support of instant claim 1. The claim of the patent requires that the support device support the product in the electroplating solution. This is considered to implicitly require some structure for containing an electroplating solution in some manner as does the reservoir of instant claim 1. Claim 1 of the patent recites an electrical circuit including an electrode. Instant claim 1 recites an electrode configured such that when the reservoir is filled with electroplating solution, the electrode also contacts the solution. While the claim of the patent does not specifically recite that the apparatus is configured so that the electrode contacts the electroplating solution, to be operative, such a contact must occur. Otherwise, the electrical circuit would not be complete and electroplating current could not flow. Instant claim 1 concludes with a "wherein" limitation. This limitation is considered to require structure capable of carrying out the functions recited. One function is changing the distance between the electrode and the support between a first operating distance and a second operating distance. Structure for performing this function is considered to correspond to the control device for changing the distance between the semiconductor product and the electrode as recited in claim 1 of the patent.

Structure to perform the additional function recited in instant claim 1 that requires both the electrode and a substrate held on the support to maintain contact with the solution through any change in distance between the first operating distance and the second operating distance would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art because, as observed above, to be operational, contact with the electroplating solution is required in order to allow electroplating current to flow. The other newly presented independent claims are similar in content to claim 1.

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant was prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application during prosecution of the application which matured into a patent. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
